OHIO GARNERS TWO FROM KENTUCKY BOYS

"Swatting" Ability Puts Buckeye Men Out of State's Class

ERRORS PLENTIFUL

The baseball aggregation from Ohio State University has come and gone and the record of the Wildcats for this year was dimmed somewhat by the efforts of the lads from the Buckeye State, since twice in as many days the wearers of the blue and white were forced to take the short end of the score as a result of the swatting ability of the visitors.

The game Friday was played in typical football weather with a strong wind sending a cold gale across the athletic field, making the work of the players very disagreeable and causing the few loyal supporters who had ventured out, shiveringly to depart, singly and in groups, until the bleachers strongly resembled an apple tree in late November.

Things never looked brighter for the blue and white than at the start of the game. Two runs were gleaned from the offerings of Wright of Ohio in the initial session and the small bunch of heroes in the stands went wild. Gloom followed immediately when the Ohioans took their turn in the next inning. All precedents were destroyed when House, one of the visitors, connected with one of Cooper's crooked ones for a home run, the ball clearing the fence in left field by a good margin.

In the succeeding round the swatters from Ohio, aided by a wobble or two, contributed by the awed Kentuckians, added four more counters to their original tally, continued the slaughter in the next chapter and when the smoke finally cleared from the scene of the encounter the visitors had managed to collect a total of sixteen runs, while the cats by diligent perseverance boasted of four. Cooper retired in the second round, giving place to Ireland, who went the remainder of the journey.

The score and summary follow:

'TWELFTH NIGHT' TO BE GIVEN ON HALL LAWN

Co-eds Are To Star In Unique Shakespeare Production

MAY 6 IS THE DATE

The cast of "Twelfth Night," said to be the best ever selected by the Philosophian Literary Society, will be ready for the performance of the play to be given May 6 on Patterson Hall lawn.

Miss Darnall, as "Viola," the girl who dons her brother's clothes and takes the part of a page, could not be surpassed. Miss Darnall is well-known, having appeared in other college plays.

Miss Anna E. Lewis, as "Duke Orsino," who makes her first appearance on the stage, plays most naturally this character. Miss Becker has taken the part of "Olivia," formerly announced to be taken by Miss Sullivan, who was compelled to give it up, on accepting a position in Richmond. Miss Becker is well fitted for the part.

The other characters are showing skill in handling the minor, yet essential parts. Rehearsals are being held every night and much enthusiasm is being shown.

The cast follows:

Duke Orsino.....	Anna E. Lewis
Valentine.....	Mary Hamilton
Sir Tobey Belch.....	Cecelia Cregor
Sir Andrew Aguecheek.....	.....
.....	Alene Kavanaugh
Sebastian.....	Vivian DeLaine
Antonio.....	Elizabeth Farra
Friar.....	Miriam Horine

GLEE CLUB RETURNS TO THE LIMELIGHT

Will Give Its First Program In the University Chapel May 12

MANY NEW FEATURES

The University of Kentucky Glee Club will return to the limelight it once held in college activities on the night of May 12, when Manager "Doc" Rice's entertainers will hold full sway in the University chapel.

Despite a lapse of one year without a glee club, the present organization promises a return to the stage that bids well to "make up for lost time."

Rehearsals have been held under the direction of C. L. Bennett, of the Lexington College of Music, for the past

SENIORS WILL MEET UNIVERSITY ALUMNI

The following letter was recently received by the senior class:

To the Senior Class of '16:

Ladies and Gentlemen:—You are about to graduate and become members of the body alumni of the University. It seems very desirable therefore that the class of '16 have a sort of get-together meeting at some convenient place in the near future and give the representatives of the Alumni Association an opportunity to meet with you and tell you something of the alumni organization and the dreams of the alumni for a greater University and a greater Kentucky.

I trust that such a meeting can be arranged to take place not later than Thursday, May 4.

Sincerely yours,

J. D. TURNER,

Secretary.

Arrangements have been made for the Alumni Association to meet the seniors on Thursday evening, May 4, at 7:30 o'clock.

TENNIS.

All who are interested in a tennis team to represent the University this year are requested to come to chapel today—Thursday—at 12 o'clock. There will be a team if the students want one. Three schools have already asked for meets.

KENTUCKY CRIPLED FOR SOUTHERN TRIP

Three Regulars Probably Will Be Missing From the Line-up

TEAM IS CONFIDENT

Seriously handicapped by the absence of two players and possibly a third, the University of Kentucky baseball team will leave tonight for Knoxville, Tennessee, to play a two-game series Friday and Saturday afternoons. Shortstop Waters and "Senator" Crum, two of the heaviest wielders of the willow, will not take the trip because of matters which will necessitate their presence here. "Dutch" Schrader, who has been sick for the past several days, may not be able to go on the trip. In spite of handicaps the team is full of "pep" and confident of victory.

Curtis Park, captain, will do the receiving. Grubbs, G. Park, Ireland and Cooper are the hurlers who will be taken. Kelley will probably be stationed at the initial sack, the rest of the line-up remaining practically the same as in previous games this season.

The game scheduled for yesterday afternoon with the team from Western Reserve was canceled on account of a drizzling rain and wet grounds.

KENTUCKY TRACKMEN LOSE AT VANDERBILT

Cats Are Able To Stow Away Four Firsts and Two Seconds

MARSHALL IS FEATURE

Harold Stack and his bunch of track athletes returned home from Nashville Sunday after engaging the Vandy performers on Dudley Field Saturday and suffering a defeat of 76 to 22. This is virtually as one-sided a score as Vanderbilt piled up against State last year, but this time Kentucky was able to account for four firsts and two seconds, whereas, only one first was recorded for the Blue and White boys in 1915.

Decidedly the feature of the meet was the hurdling of Marshall, of Kentucky. This man pulled up in front in both the high and low hurdles, running the latter in 27 seconds, establishing a new record for Kentucky. His time in the high hurdles was 17.3. Captain Hickerson threw the discus 100 feet and 2 inches and won the event. Otten was the other man to win a first for Kentucky. His opponents only forced him to go 9 feet 11 inches in the pole vault. Grabfelder was nosed out by inches in the hundred and again ran second to Turner in the 220.

Vanderbilt took all of the remaining events, including the high jump, hammer, quarter, half, mile and relay.

Georgetown will send her track representatives here Saturday to hold the second consecutive Kentucky-Georgetown meet. Georgetown won the meet on Hinton Field last year by a very narrow margin. State expects to get revenge in spite of the disastrous result at Vanderbilt.

HAMILTON HOLT IN CHAPEL WEDNESDAY

Editor of Independent Talks on "Federation of Nations"

STATES PLAIN FACTS

Hamilton Holt, editor of the Independent Magazine, addressed the student body in chapel yesterday morning on the subject, "Federation of the Nations." Mr. Holt is making a tour of the universities of the country under the auspices of the World's Peace Society. President Barker introduced the speaker to the largest audience that has been assembled in the chapel this year.

Mr. Holt said that war was a perfectly legal way of settling disputes between the nations, although it is not a moral method. He said that there were only three valid arguments

SPECIAL EVENTS MARK BATTALION DISMISSAL

Inspection, Competitive Drill and Sham Battle Close Year

ELECT NEW OFFICERS

The dismissal of the University battalion for the year was made last week with a series of noteworthy events including a sham battle and annual inspection on Thursday followed by individual and company competitive drill on Friday. The announcement of the officers of the battalion for the ensuing year was an additional feature.

At 10:00 a. m. Thursday the battalion assembled for annual inspection and presented an excellent appearance. Captain J. Kingman, of the United States Army General Staff, the inspecting officer, seemed well pleased with their work.

In the afternoon the forces were divided into an offensive and a defensive party and engaged in a sham battle. The defensive party under Captain L. J. Heyman, was stationed in front of and to the right and left of the Administration Building and the offensive force under the direction of Major R. F. Albert, was sent to attack this defending force from the east over the city dumps. The mock battle was carried out with a snap and vigor that made it seem highly real.

It was under rather adverse weather conditions that the battalion was called together Friday afternoon for the competitive drill. An occasional sprinkle of cold rain made it very difficult for the cadets to carry out their work but they went through the program in unexpectedly good style. In the individual competitive drill among the first-year men J. A. Milton, of this city, was the winner of the medal. Among the second-year men T. E. Peak, of Lagrange, came forth victorious. In the company competitive drill Company A was declared the winner and Captain Ben Mahoney was presented with a new saber as is the annual custom.

The success of the battalion this year is large due to Major R. F. Albert, who has been acting commandant since the departure of Lieutenant Underwood. Major Albert has carried out the work with a thoroughness characteristic of a well-trained military man and is deserving of high commendation.

The officers for the battalion for the forthcoming year will be as follows:

Major—E. L. Frazier.
Captain and Adjutant—G. M. Hill.
Captain and Quartermaster—M. Montgomery.
Sergeant Major—T. R. Underwood.
Quartermaster Sergeant—H. L. Houchell.

SHAKESPEARE PROGRAM IS GREAT SUCCESS

Prof. Farquhar, Dr. Terrell and Mr. McComas Are the Speakers

MISS SMITH PRESIDES

A celebration in honor of the tercentenary anniversary of Shakespeare's death, was held in chapel Monday morning under the auspices of the English Club. Professor E. F.
 Farquhar and Dr. Glanville Terrell delivered addresses, and William Mc-Comas, of Lexington, a former Shakespearean actor with the Marlowe & Southern Company, gave a reading from Hamlet. Miss Rebecca Smith presided.

Professor Farquhar spoke on "The Personality of Shakespeare." He dwelt upon the genius of the man and showed that talent and genius were widely different. "To be talented," said Professor Farquhar, "is to be gifted in one direction and is even hereditary; genius, on the other hand, is never transmitted, but depends on a very active self-consciousness."

William McComas was next on the program. In his characteristic manner with a peculiarly impressive style he read parts of Hamlet and held the interest of his audience throughout.

Dr. Glanville Terrell spoke on the much debated subject, "Who is William Shakespeare?" He said that as much as he admired Greek drama he had to concede that Shakespeare is the world's master dramatist. Dr.
 Terrell, in contrasting the English and Greek drama, said: "If a Greek could have heard a play of Shakespeare, he would have said, 'what a wonderful barbarian.'"

MISS ANDERSON DESIGNS BUNGALOW

Miss Virginia Anderson, daughter of Professor F. Paul Anderson, member of the home arts class, designed the bungalow which was accepted as a model by the vote of the class. Mr.
 Connell, decorator for the March Furniture Company, demonstrated to the class how the bungalow could be decorated and furnished throughout.

After the lecture Mr. March entertained the class with refreshments.
 Mr. Connell's next lecture will be given Monday, May 1, on "Textiles, Their Origin and Use."

Professor Anderson was greatly pleased with the success of his daughter and has promised her that he will build the house designed by her, according to her own plans.

MUSIC CLUB.

At a meeting of the Music Club Tuesday night Miss Cochran, of the Lexington College of Music, gave a recital on Grieg and his compositions.
 In addition Miss Judith Beard gave several instrumental selections and Miss Christine Hopkins a reading.

Don't forget you need flowers for the Prom and Lamp and Cross. Why not order now?

WILLIAM SHINNICK TO REPRESENT STATE IN CONTEST MAY 12

In the oratorical contest which was held in chapel last Friday morning, William Shinnick, of Shelbyville, representative of the Patterson Literary Society, was victorious. He was opposed by Clarence Clark, of Owensboro, who represented the Union Literary Society.

By winning in this contest Mr. Shin-nick will have the honor of representing the University of Kentucky in the intercollegiate oratorical contest which is to be held in Danville,
 May 12.

The two orations were delivered in the best style before a large audience.
 Mr. Shinnick's subject was: "America and the Age of Ideals." Mr. Clark spoke on "Americans for America."
 The judges were Professor C. R. Melcher, Professor T. T. Jones and Professor E. F. Farquhar.

HAMILTON HOLT

against war. The first was a moral reason, based on the commandment,
 "Thou Shalt Not Kill."

The second argument was an economic one, based on the enormous destruction of property caused by war.
 He stated that in the last twenty-four hours $85,000,000 worth of property had been ruined. The annual amount spent on war per annum amounts to $30,000,000,000.

The biological argument was the third valid reason given against war.
 The superior and best men of a nation are always killed, leaving the weak and inferior. Five million men have already been killed and 10,000,000 maimed for life. He cited the fact that although the men gladly gave up their lives for their country, the women and children suffered most during war.

In defining the peace movement, Mr.
 Holt said: "The peace movement is the process of doing between the nations what has been done within the nations."

Mr. Holt said that The Hague was not a failure, but on the other hand had proved a success sixteen out of seventeen times.

The theory of the World's Peace Society was to have international police and an international league of peace for settling disputes between nations and although it might never come about, the idea was out and could not be killed.

IMPORTANT!

In order that the Phoenix Hotel Company can be advised as to the number of patrons desiring lunch during the intermission at the Junior Prom Friday night, tickets will be on sale at the Business Office Thursday and Friday.

Every student attending the dance should buy his lunch ticket in advance, so the committee can arrange with the Phoenix Hotel Company to take care of a definite number of people and save the tedious delay waiting for service in the cafe.

several months. According to a statement of Director Bennett, the gleemen are twenty excellently trained musicians. The Mandolin Club is of exceptional merit, while the quartet is said to eclipse any that has represented the University in several years.

Features of the Glee Club program will consist of several songs by Miss Elsie Bennett, of the Lexington College of Music, and selections from the violin of Edwin Cobb.

The management of the Glee Club will probably schedule out-of-town engagements and if possible book a touring expedition through the central part of Kentucky. A more definite program of the club's performance will be announced later.

STUDENTS' FORUM

Editor Kentucky Kernel:

Dear Sir:—It has for many years been the custom of your paper to run a "Who's Who" among the senior class. This seems to me a good thing and a custom and it is with regret that I have noticed the absence of this time-honored custom in the pages of your paper published each week. No doubt, the originators of the movement thought it a creditable idea, and their successors—with the exception of this year—have carried forward the move.

The old "Who's Who," as I understand it, was simply a "rendering unto Caesar, the things that are Caesar's." However, there may have been circumstances present this year under which you could not follow out the admirable prestige of your predecessors. But, as a matter of fairness to your constituents, it seems to me that it would be a very commendable act on your part to explain in the columns of your paper just why you have made such a sudden innovation in your weekly publication. Is it that you have not the material, or has some personal affair superseded the function of the office which you have the honor of holding? I trust it is not the latter.

I hope this is not asking too much of you Mr. Editor, just to make the matter clear, for I have always considered you as a man of no mean calibre, with plenty of moral stamina to give a square deal to all.

Very truly yours,

FAIRPLAY.

It is contrary to the policy of the Kernel to give attention to any-mous communications. Owing to peculiar circumstances an exception is made here.

The "Who's Who" does not appear in these columns for the same reason that elephants cannot ride in Pullman coaches, namely, lack of space.

We should like to call to your notice, dear friend Caesar, the fact that the 1916 Kentuckian will contain a "Who's Who" of all seniors who have paid class dues.

EDITOR.

Mr. Editor:

You recently complained in an editorial because there were no class basketball games.

Why not say something in favor of class baseball? The students want it. Why should they not have it? A schedule could be easily arranged if someone would take a little interest in the matter.

Trusting you will publish this, I am,

Respectfully yours,

—JOHN D.

MISS AUBYN CHINN
TO TAKE UP HOME
EXTENSION WORK

Miss Aubyn Chinn, Professor of Foods and Cookery in the department of Home Economics, has resigned from the University faculty and after June 1 will take up Home Extension work as district agent for Eastern Kentucky with headquarters in Lexington. Miss Chinn will be under the direction of Doctor Mutchler and Mrs. Helen B. Wolcott, State Agent of Home Extension Workers.

Miss Chinn was a member of the class of 1907 and has been an instructor in the University since 1909. Her place in the Home Economics Department will be hard to fill.

Improved weather conditions greeted the combatants Saturday when the second game of the series with Ohio was staged. The Kentucky upholders again were off in front and for considerable time had the scoring all to themselves. George Park who was on the mound for the blue and white, had the visitors completely at his mercy for four innings, during which time his team mates pushed four tallies across the scoring station.

But then, just to prove that you never can tell, the Ohioans again got rough as of yore and proceeded in a very short time to darken the horizon of the ambitious young hurler.

Once started, in one short inning they had collected as many runs as had the native sons in four. Even then the bombardment did not dimi-sh and red-sweatered athletes continued to make the circuit with a marked degree of regularity.

Park was succeeded by Cisco, who lasted just one round and was in turn replaced by Grubbs, who finished the struggle manfully, allowing but a single score in three innings.

The final count was 9 to 4 and is a fairly accurate indication of the strength of the two teams.

Credits Where Credits Are Due.

The Kernel wishes to bring to the attention of the faculty the matter of giving credits toward graduation for participation in University activities not connected with class work. In particular, we believe that college dramatics and literary society work should be encouraged in this manner. At present the rewards accruing to students taking part in work in the Dramatic Club and the literary societies, while sufficient to compensate in a way for time and labor expended, are by no means a sufficient acknowledgement by the University of the debt it owes to these students. The Kernel believes that the faculty, if the matter is brought to its attention, will see the wisdom of assisting these activities to become the forces they should be. More than one member of the teaching corps has already expressed his approval of the giving of credits for such work, and there is a possibility that they may be awarded next year.

The Stroller play is now a thing of the past. The organization is to be commended on the excellent play and the self-sacrificing spirit displayed by the actors and the other members of the club in putting it on. The stage manager is authority for the statement that not less than seventy hours were spent by the cast in actual rehearsal, and that the outside study put on their parts by the players would bring the total amount of time spent by them to fully the amount expended in a two-hour class throughout an entire year's work. Surely it is not too much to ask that these students be given a credit—or half a credit, if that is too much—for the same work that brings two credits in class work. Aside from athletic contests, perhaps nothing gives to the University so much favorable advertising as the annual play, and it is just as true that this play is one of the big college events of the year. At present all the rewards the Strollers receive are a modicum of short-lived glory and the consciousness of work well done.

But it is the literary societies that need help most. The Dramatic Club takes the students' time only for a part of the year, and the organization is flourishing both financially and in reputation. The same cannot be said of the literary societies. With no funds except the dues assessed against the individual members, and little or no encouragement from the faculty or the student body in general, there is little to attract students to these societies. True, those who win medals and represent the University in debates and oratorical contests are the recipients of praise and get their reward. But the rank and file who attend the weekly meetings and never appear before the public receive nothing but the benefit of their experience. The literary societies, in the Kernel's judgment, should not only be given credits, but if possible an appropriation should be made from the funds of the University toward maintaining them at a high standard.

The Kernel believes that the students who do things are the ones who should be recognized and assisted and we doubt if any member of the faculty would oppose the giving of these credits. However, if there is any objection to the program suggested in this editorial, the editor is at all times ready to give space to a discussion of the matter.

Read This.

The winners of the oratorical contests conducted by the Patterson and Union literary societies are given medals in appreciation of their victories and as mementos of important events in their lives. The winner of the championship of the school in oratory and the representative of the University of Kentucky in the State contests receives—the satisfaction of having won.

Everyone will admit that this is not altogether as it should be. Certainly there should be some recognition of the fact and some honor paid to the young man who is supreme among the students in public speaking.

Will not the faculty make some provision for this? Some alumnus could endow a prize of this kind at no great expense. Will not some one give this matter attention?
—M. J. R.

A Cheerful Correction.

An article appearing in The Times some two or three weeks since to the effect that a man and his wife coming from the "cut-off" to town both got drunk and that the man lost his wife in the time of it and was here next morning in a futile effort to find her, was in error in saying the husband was drunk. We have it from the man himself that he was not drunk neither drinking and moreover that he doesn't drink at all, otherwise he says the story was true.—Jackson Times.

The city editor of a daily newspaper once upon a time sent a cub reporter to a wedding, instructing him to write a good story on the affair. The cub had been educated in a school of journalism and knew that a good reporter is always truthful; hence he turned in the following snappy story:

"One of the sickliest affairs ever pulled off in our fair city was the wedding last evening of Joe Smith and Sarah Jones, which was solemnized at the Fifth Avenue church. The contracting parties are well-known in the city, especially in social circles. Mr. Smith is reputed to be one of the best crap-shooters in the State and Miss Jones is known far and wide as the stupidest and most impossible belle in the older set. Both have been unsuccessful in their efforts to get into matrimony heretofore, but the match is regarded as eminently satisfactory to the general public. After a wedding trip of two days Mr. and Mrs. Smith will return to town and will be at the home of the bride's father, who will furnish them free board. Mr. Smith will then return to Robinson's drug store, where he is a prosperous soda jerker.

"The bride entered the church on the arm of her father, who was very ill at ease but apparently determined to see the thing through to the bitter end. Miss Jones was about the most unhandsome bride that ever wore cheesecloth draped over her head, and the smile she wore on her face was enough to frighten anybody less nervy than Smith. However, it is reported that he owed old man Jones about two hundred dollars and that the only way he could get even was to marry his daughter. Therefore, he marched up and took his medicine like a man. The bridegroom and the best man, Arthur Brown, slippeder shamefacedly down the side aisle and finally reached the altar, although Smith stumbled over a ridge in the carpet and said 'damn' quite audibly. The city's most persistent soloist, Miss Lavinia Whistler, sang in her accustomed screechy way throughout the performance, to the great annoyance of the best man. Miss Whistler sings on the slightest provocation and it is said of her that if she could get to the trenches she could force the soldiers to die with a smile on their faces after they had heard one warble.

"Arriving at the altar, which, by the way, was adorned with four decrepit palms and a dollar and a half's worth of sweet pease, the whole bunch was met by the minister, Reverend O. B. Loud, who had been selected probably because he has the saddest face in the world. When he reached the fatal words that made the pair eternally bound until divorce and alimony, if there be such, shall separate them, Sarah shouted, 'I will,' so loudly that Smith was startled. However, after the best man had slipped him a small chew of long green he revived sufficiently to go on with the misery. The wedding was a great success, aside from the fact that somebody forgot to bring the ring, the small crowd present, the punk music, the sad-looking pair, the bad cold the minister had and the general lack of interest. Small details such as the poor appearance of the bridegroom and the lack of pulchritude in the bride are always overlooked at weddings."

Also at Kentucky.

Watching their steps with clumsy care,
Some reeling youths dance by;
And flound'ring round the floor do tear
While twanging "uks" do cry.

Your ear is shocked with fearful sounds
There seems to be a row;
For ev'ry now and then resounds,
"Get off my feet, you cow."

The plaster drops from off the walls
The floor creaks and groans,
But still they shout their signal calls
In bawling raucous tones.

Then suddenly the meaning clears "Practicing for the Prom"
And when the time to dance appears They'll act without a qualm.

They have their signals learned by heart
Each man will do his best
And ev'ry one will do his part
To swipe feed for the rest.

SILVER JUBILEE FOR ENGINEERS MAY 30

An Appropriate Celebration Planned For 25th Anniversary of College

The Silver Jubilee, the twenty-fifth anniversary of the founding of the College of Mechanical and Electrical Engineering, will be appropriately celebrated on May 30th during commencement week.

An alumni committee has been appointed to take charge of this event and plans are on foot to have a large majority of the alumni of this college return to Lexington for the celebration.

Nothing definite has been decided as yet, but a tentative program includes the unveiling and dedication of a monument to the first railroad west of the Alleghenies, to be erected in front of Mechanical Hall; appropriate speeches by prominent alumni in honor of the twenty-fifth anniversary of the founding of the College; and a buffet luncheon, served to the visiting alumni and their friends.

The College of Mechanical and Electrical Engineering was established in 1891 and within this quarter of a century has developed into one of the leading schools of the University of Kentucky, both in number of matriculates and in number of successful and influential graduates, and in reputation is one of the leading technical colleges in the United States. The number of graduates is nearly 400, distributed through the United States and other countries of the globe from Siberia to Ceylon.

Alumni of this college are being corresponded with at the present time by the committee and the preparations for the Jubilee are rapidly taking definite form. It is expected that a large number of the alumni will return to take part in the activities.

FILM LECTURE SERIES

The series of commercial films which are being shown at Mechanical Hall is proving of great educational value to those who are fortunate enough to attend, as by this means great industrial plants and engineering projects are brought to the student who would otherwise have no opportunity of coming in contact with such works.

Saturday morning a set of films from the Barber Asphalt Company, illustrating the great asphaltum lakes at Trinidad, the methods of obtaining the asphalt and its application to various forms of roadways. Films were shown Monday afternoon covering the manufacture of a modern hat. These pictures were sent out by the John B. Stetson Company.

Wednesday night two especially interesting films were shown, covering the construction of the Panama Canal and the operation of the motor control boards at the various locks.

Other films to be shown this week, to which any persons interested are invited, are:

"Yellowstone Park," The Northern Pacific Railway Co.

"The Making of High Grade Tools," The Starrett Tool Co.

"Walkover Shoes," Walkover Shoe Company.

"History of the Silk Worm," The Skinner Silk Company.

"The Manufacture of Lumber," The Lamb-Fish Lumber Company.

"Fancy Shotgun and Rifle Shooting," The Winchester Arms Company.

"A Modern Cereal Plant," The Postum Cereal Company.

NOTICE, SENIORS!

To those of the senior class who were not inclined to have a page of our Kentuckian adorned with their photographs, I wish to say since the Kentuckian has now gone to press and no more decorations can be inserted therein, that the entire eight dollars will no longer be collected, but instead, eight dollars less five—the amount voted to the Kentuckian—will be collected.

Those who wish to attend the Prom, the event of the year, and the traditional senior ball, may secure their bids and invitations by paying to W. P. Mayo, treasurer, the three dollars dues to aid in defraying the necessary expenses incurred by the class.

O. M. EDWARDS, President.

The Tipping Evil.

Have you ever walked up the Hill with a young lady under both your arms, met a lady of your acquaintance, and performed a dextrous feat in juggling in order to tip your hat to her? Then this editorial is aimed at you! Haven't we had enough of that sort of thing? Why must the down-trodden male tip his hat to thirty or more co-edits every time he ascends the hill? The only logical reason we can think of for hat-tipping being a prerogative of the masculine sex is that feminine hats won't tip. SOMETHING IS ROT- TEN IN THE STATE OF SWEDEN! Consider the plight of the confirmed sorority fly. He knows half the girls in school. His duty is to juggle his headgear for every fourth person he passes. Is this fair, is this just, is this equitable for the poor squire of dames? How can he possibly take any text books to class? There should be a substitute. Why not a sweet smile and a cheery, "Ah there!" in place of this manipulation of the chapeau? THE TIPPING EVIL MUST GO!—Cardinal.

Hall—Gayle.

Lexington papers have recently contained notices of the approaching marriage of Miss Jennie Hall, of Franklin, to Hubbard Gayle, Kentucky '14, on May 27. Mr. Gayle and his bride will attend the '14 class reunion during commencement week at the University.

"Hub" Gayle was a prominent student in the Agricultural College, and is now connected with the Mississippi Agricultural College.

Pigg—Barker.

The marriage of Miss Hattie Pigg, of Richmond, to H. Y. Barker, Kentucky '15, was solemnized April 24, at Richmond. Mr. and Mrs. Barker will make their home in Barbertown, Ohio, where Mr. Barker is superintendent of the Babcock-Wilcox Company plant.

H. Y. Barker was graduated from the College of Mechanical and Electrical Engineering of the University in last year's class, and has many friends here who will read of his marriage with great interest.

Junior Prom.

The Junior Prom will be given at the Phoenix Hotel Friday evening, April 28, and promises to surpass the dances given by other classes in past years. Mr. Frank Crum, president of the class, will lead the grand march.

Sophomore Dance.

The sophomore class held its annual dance in the Armory Saturday evening, April 22. The grand march was led by Miss Celia Cregor, vice president, and Mr. James Server, president of the class.

The music was furnished by Wright's Saxophone Trio, and the dance was declared to be the best ever held on the campus.

Woman's Club.

The Home Economics Department of the Woman's Club of Central Kentucky offered as its program Saturday afternoon, a demonstration of canning fruits and vegetables by Misses Johnnie Cramer and Linda Funnell, students in the Home Economics Department of the University.

Arbor Day.

The interest of the University is already being directed toward the Arbor Day exercises which will be held on the campus May 5. The senior honor societies, Staff and Crown, and Lamp and Cross, will conduct their pledging ceremonies and the senior class will plant its tree with the usual speeches and prophecy.
